Issue
I cannot sign up with the error: "This email is already in use".	There's an account with this email. Go to My Account's login
I get an error message: "You're not recommended to use this password because it's widely used and cannot reliably protect your account."	The password you entered is too common. To minimize the chance of being hacked, choose a password that is not widely used.
I need to create a business account for my company, but I don't find such an option.	Business accounts are available for purchase with a product license. For more information, see Business Accounts .

I get an error message: "This email address was previously deleted and cannot be reused for at least {n} days while we're making sure that all data is completely removed from all Parallels services."

Your email address is not the same as a corresponding number stated in the error message.

Single Sign-On issues

Issue
I'm an admin of a business account of my company/organization registered with Parallels, and I want to log in to the business account using the Single Sign-On procedure.	Read https://kb.parallels.com/12345 for more information on Single Sign-On integration with Parallels My Business.
I'm an end-user of the Parallels Desktop for Mac Business Edition, and I want to activate the Parallels Desktop on my computer via Single Sign-On.	As the end-user of the Parallels Desktop for Mac Business Edition, you can activate the Parallels Desktop on your computer via Single Sign-On. Use the Single Sign-On button inside the product, ask your partner for assistance, or contact Parallels Customer Care.
